Chapman Property to Be Improved

Bath Street to Undergo More Changes for Business Purposes—Liveryman Hodge will Soon Vacate Livery man's Row—Many Changes at the Stable in Fifty Years.

Through the decision by the county commissioners that no more permits for saloons on Franklin square would be granted after last November, a number of changes in the store property affected are impending. According to some arrangements already made and others said to be in prospect, most of the saloons affected will probably be located in Bath and Franklin streets. It is reported that the Chapman property on Bath street, now occupied by the livery stable of George E. Hodge, is to be occupied by one or more saloons or for other business purposes, as Mr. Hodge said Wednesday evening that he has received notice to vacate the place he has occupied for his livery stable. He will be out as soon as possible, and has location on Franklin street in view, but has not yet completed arrangements.

Stables to Be Changed.
The changes in the Chapman building to fit it for another form of business will mark the passing of what has long been a landmark in the livery trade of this city, and leave the William F. Bailey place the only stable on the street. About seven years ago another landmark in the livery business was removed when the Charles McChesney stable on the corner of Bath and Chestnut street was bought for the city barn. This building was built 35 years ago by Oliver H. Reynolds to run in connection with his Shetucket street stable.

Livery Center for Years.
For more than fifty years, Bath street and the Chapman stable site have been practically the livery center of the city, and the lines of carriages and teams ranged along both sides of the street indicated the place where the horsemen gathered. The kindred trades of wagon making, blacksmithing and harness shops were located on the opposite side of the street in past years, the carriage building shops of William Tubbs and of Hilton & Beckwith being the best known about the '60s and '70s.

The two veteran liverymen of the city, Charles McChesney, who retired from business seven years ago, and Oliver H. Reynolds, who is in his first year of active business life, retain lively recollections of the changes that have taken place on the Chapman site in the last half-century. Fifty years ago the site was occupied by the stable of two stables on the Chapman site, Ed Osgood at No. 10 Bath street, and Col. Gordon Pendleton at No. 12. In a year or two the firm of Hayes & Savory (Henry Hayes and R. H. Savory), had the livery at No. 10, while Colonel Pendleton and D. Henry Rathbone, his son-in-law, were at No. 12 Bath street.

Swept by Fire.
About 1870 there was a fire at the property and after that Edward Clark, who had been in the business in Rockville, came here and bought the business and property, making some considerable improvements about the place. He was a brother of David Clark, who was in the livery business in Williamstown. About 1884, Clark's interests were bought out by the firm of Tweedy & Gray, consisting of Dwight S. Tweedy, who had been an engineer upon the railroad, and Henry Gray, who subsequently ran the American house. Mr. Gray got out of the partnership after about a year, but Mr. Tweedy, who was always "Sam" to his friends, continued to run the business, which caused him to make an assignment.

At this time Lyman L. Chapman, who had been conducting a small stable at the corner of High and West Main streets, bought Mr. Tweedy's Bath street business at appraisers' sale, Mr. Gray's interest in the stock. Mr. Chapman sold out the livery business at auction three years ago, being succeeded April 1 by William F. Bailey, who had been in business at the Falls and in Jewett City. He also sold out by auction at the end of a year, George E. Hodge of Westerly succeeding him to the present time.

SECOND MILL SOCIAL
AT Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Mule and Card Room Employees of Ponemah Mill Entertained.

The second of a series of mill social evenings given by the Y. M. C. A. was conducted at the association building on Wednesday evening, having the men of the mule room and the card room of the Ponemah mill as guests. The attendance numbered over 100, and an enjoyable programme was presented.

The exercises began in the gymnasium, where Physical Director, singing Bandlow conducted a class drill, which was followed by a fine exhibition of balancing by Kristek and McMahon, who brought down the house with their clever performance. A basketball game followed between the mule room team, captained by Blair, and the card room team, captained by Walden. At the end of the allotted time the score was a tie, 10 to 10. In a few minutes of exciting play the mule room team won, 12 to 10.

The men were then invited upstairs to the hall, where a moving picture exhibition was given, two films being run off. General Secretary W. A. Morse addressed the gathering and announced the next mill social night for Friday, which will be a "Nameville" night. The men of the Cutlery, the Paper company and Uncas Specialty company are to be invited. There is to be a basketball game between the cutlery and Uncas Specialty teams, and a wrestling match between Foote and Francyk.

Arthur Belair, John Waldron and John Kyle were the committee in charge of Ponemah night.

Winchester, Norwich; Mrs. Charles J. Pierce and Mrs. Hannah H. LaFontaine, Allyn's Point; and Mrs. Joseph E. Carpenter of Port Point.

UNION LENTEN SERVICE AT TRINITY CHURCH.

Rev. J. A. Biddle of Waterbury, Archdeacon of Hartford, preached on The Need of Righteousness.

The fourth of the midweek Lenten services of the Episcopal churches was held on Wednesday evening at Trinity church. The special preacher was Rev. J. A. Biddle of Waterbury, archdeacon of Hartford, who took as his text Matthew 11:23. Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.

The sermon was one of practical thought, dealing with the question of the day and the methods of men. He said there are three questions both-ering men today. What shall I do to be saved from poverty, injustice and sin? The three things which make life worth living are food, justice, and holiness, and the world cannot go on without them.

There was a time in the world when the church came first, and another time when the world came first, and now it is industrialism. This cry goes above those of patriotism and religion, although religion dominated during the time of the crusades and the building of the great cathedrals of the old world. The economic question occupies this age, and business intrudes on Sunday, causing the omission of family prayers and the trend of the modern thought seems to be against the church being given to economic subjects. Jesus says take no thought of what shall eat, but the church, its creed, sacraments and organization shall be our first concern. Seek the kingdom of God and its standard of holiness.

A perfect church organization is needed to make holy men and that done you'll have no trouble getting holiness, for the righteous are not forsaken or made to beg. It is not the honest, prudent, industrious men who are in want. We need holy men of God, then we will have no difficulty in organizing a just government or a culture.

Let the church be perfected in making men of God, then we will have no difficulty in organizing a just government or a culture. The standard of manhood and charity. The organizations must be men of authority, wisdom and power to use the power of the instruments of the culture. If only one-half the skill used in the industrial system's perfection be used in perfecting the church, the church will be no trouble from divorce, labor troubles and what are considered the questions of today. It is a mistake to put business ahead of religion, the most fatal of all mistakes.

The sober, righteous, godly man is never in want except through the influence of others. Oh for thousands of consecrated Morgans, Hartmans, Cleavelands, Roosevelts and Carnegies to lead the work of righteousness and an army of missionaries to evangelize the world.

The safe blowers did a good job and it is believed got away with some booty.

DELICATE OPERATION.

Bean Removed from Bronchial Tube of 13 Months Old Child.

Through an X-ray photograph taken by Dr. W. Tyler Browne at the Backus hospital on Tuesday a bean was discovered lodged in the bronchial tubes of a little 13 months old Polish boy, and Dr. W. K. Conley, chief of operation of tracheotomy, removing the bean with his forceps. The operation is a severe one, but it is hoped the baby will recover, and the prospects seem good.

The child swallowed the bean while playing at its home, and its fits of coughing led the mother and the doctor to suspect what had happened. The operation is one that was performed at a New York hospital recently, so that it is shown how well able the local institution is able to take care of the most difficult cases.

Curing Rheumatism.
Friends of Congressman Hill in Bridgeport are amused at the report printed Wednesday that he would enter the race for the United States senatorship. They point out that he is at Hot Springs, under treatment for rheumatism. There is some logic in this, says the Waterbury Republican, for anybody who has ever had a case of rheumatism to cure will remember that at the time the empire of the earth would have looked like one of the glitts and grays of a world of empty vanities.—Bridgeport Standard.

Has Had Experience.
"Uncle Joe's" long experience in pairing off ought to stand him in good stead as the manager of the congressional matrimonial bureau.—Washington Post.

Perils of the Hen.

ARRESTED IN BRIDGEPORT FOR NON-SUPPORT.

Harrison Gatchell Held There for Local Police on Charge Made by His Wife—Has Been Gone About Three Months.

On Wednesday, in response to a request from Chief Murphy, the Bridgeport police arrested Harrison Gatchell of this city and he will be brought here today. He is arrested for non-support, his wife preferring the charge against him. He left town about three months ago, deserting his wife and child, the wife being obliged to work what she could for the support of herself and child. It is said he went away with another woman.

He was formerly employed by the Connecticut company here and resided in Greenville. When complaint was made about his disappearance, Chief Murphy got busy on the case and he was quickly landed.
